People and Pleasant Events

Parties sending in accounts of social entertainments will please sign them, as The Sun will not publish communications sent in that are not signed.

Kentucky Girls in Europe.
In the New York letter by Roy W. Howard, staff correspondent to the Kentucky Post, is the following:
Shades of Kentucky's fair daughters of the past help! assistance!
Like Count Boni, we are "insulted." Paris, just to teach a man a joke and incidentally to square that little account John D. Rockefeller chalked up by criticizing the French women's large feet, has voted Col. Watterson's party of "Kentucky peaches" a "lot of lemons."

The party of thirty Kentucky girls is now doing Paris. They are winners in a popularity contest conducted by the Courier-Journal. In Paris popularity and beauty in the case of women is synonymous—hence the Parisian papers have jumped at the conclusion that the young women are the cream of America's feminine beauty. Paris cannot "see" the girls, with their rainy day skirts, walking hats and suit cases, who are out for a good time, and not on parade.

All the papers of Paris are commenting on the lack of "chickness" of the visitors and making uncomplimentary remarks, deciding that if these girls are types, Kentucky has enjoyed undue fame for the beauty of its women.

The unkindest laceration of all, however, is that of the "L'Esclair," which says apropos of the girls:
"Never did feet so immense prop so little beauty."

Novel Party.

Miss Jessie Rook entertained last evening at her home on Fifth and Clark streets, complimentary to Misses Mire Caldwell and Monie Strout, who are visiting in the city. For the entertainment of the guests, a novel and unique game, "a musical contest," was a feature. All the young people present were given a chance to sharpen their musical ears by having several bars of many different musical compositions played and, after being supplied with paper and pencils, the guests were required to write the titles of all the pieces they recognized. Miss Cora Richardson was awarded the prize on her list. Dainty refreshments were served during the evening.

Morning Party.

In compliment to Misses Mary Newton and Hattie Miller, Mrs. E. W. Berry entertained with a pretty card party this morning at her home on North Seventh street. There were eight tables at cards. Mrs. Wynn Tully captured the lone hand prize, a handsome fan, and Miss Clara Thompson the first prize. Luncheon was served at the conclusion of the game.

Boating Party.

Miss Jeanette Petter entertained with a boating party last evening complimentary to Miss Flora Rohr, the guest of Miss Erma Reitz. After a several hours' trip up and down the river, the party returned to the city, where delightful refreshments were served by the hostess.
